EVENT: Having credit is no longer seen as a luxury for consumers – actually, having a credit history is imperative to an individual's buying power and financial well-being. A credit history is a record of an individual's past borrowing and repaying, and includes information about late payments, use or abuse of credit and financial difficulties such as bankruptcy. In a sense, it's an individual's "credit reputation." In fact, without credit, buying a car, getting a job or even obtaining a cell phone is problematic. Your credit score has become a measure of how businesses regard you and how much risk they are taking by providing a product or service to you on credit. So, it is of utmost importance to maintain a healthy financial situation.
